COLLEGE TO WELCOME HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS IN CAREER DAY THURSDAY

An estimated 300 high school seniors from San Bernardino and Riverside counties will discuss career alternatives with community professionals during Career Day, next Thursday, October 28.

Also on hand to offer career guidance and advice will be Cal State faculty and students.

The visiting students and their advisors, representing 20 high schools, will also hear about the College's degree and certificate programs, sit in on classes, have lunch, view department demonstrations and tour the residence halls and other facilities.

The annual all-day program has been a popular event for high school seniors since its beginning four years ago. Since all areas of the College are participating in Career Day, Vice President J.K. Thomas states that he hopes no tests have been scheduled which would conflict with the participation of CSCSB students.

PARALEGAL PROGRAM OFFERED BY COLLEGE

A new certificate program in paralegal studies, designed with the help of local attorneys, is being offered by the College this quarter.

Cal State is one of only three four-year colleges and universities in California to offer such a program, according to Brij Khare, Chairman of the Political Science Department.

To earn the certificate, a student must take eight core courses and three elective courses or successfully challenge them by taking an exam. It would be possible to complete the required 40 quarter units of work in three quarters.

The core courses are law office and the role of paralegal, legal research and writing, wills, estates and trusts, contract law, tort law, property law, law of evidence and litigation.

Because of student demand some expanded class offerings may be scheduled Winter and Spring Quarters, according to Edward Erler, program coordinator, who adds that the program is the only one in the state to combine liberal arts requirements with legal studies.

An informal evaluation of transcripts and information on the program is available through Dr. Erler of the Political Science Department.

SWINE FLU SHOTS ARE SCHEDULED FOR CAMPUS

Swine Flu Shots are scheduled to be offered in the Student Health Center as soon as the vaccine shipment is received on campus. The shots will be available to all students, faculty and staff, free of charge.

SWINE FLU

The Health Center expects to receive the vaccine some time next week. The shots will be given daily in the Center from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m. for the benefit of evening students, faculty and staff.

Dependents will not be eligible to obtain the shots.

For the benefit of its readers, the Bulletin has attached an information sheet containing facts regarding the Swine Flu Vaccine.

$96,000 GRANT RECEIVED
FOR FLOUR BEETLE RESEARCH

The College has received a new grant from the U.S. Army Research Office to continue work on the genetic control of flour beetles.

$46,000 has been awarded for the first year and the second year increases to $50,000, with the possibility of the Army funding a third year of research.

Alexander Sokoloff, Professor of Biology and Director of the Tribolium Stock Center, one of the world's leading research laboratories in the fight against the flour beetle, states that the Army is concerned because of problems encountered in shipping stored products long distances. The most promising means of control appear to be genetic methods.

In 1973 a three-year grant was received from the Army for research, as well as a contract for maintenance of the center.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT SWINE INFLUENZA (FLU) VACCINE

The Disease

Influenza (flu) is caused by viruses. When people get flu they may have fever, chills, headache, dry cough or muscle aches. Illness may last several days or a week or more, and complete recovery is usual. However, complications may lead to pneumonia or death in some people. For the elderly and people with diabetes or heart, lung, or kidney diseases, flu may be especially serious.

It is unlikely that you have adequate natural protection against swine flu, since it has not caused widespread human outbreaks in 45 years.

The Vaccine

The vaccine will not give you flu because it is made from killed viruses. Today's flu vaccines cause fewer side effects than those used in the past. In contrast with some other vaccines, flu vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy.

One shot will protect most people from swine flu during the next flu season; however, either a second shot or a different dosage may be required for persons under age 25. If you are under 25 and a notice regarding such information is not attached, this information will be provided to you wherever you receive the vaccine.

Possible Vaccine Side Effects

Most people will have no side effects from the vaccine. However, tenderness at the site of the shot may occur and last for several days. Some people will also have fever, chills, headache, or muscle aches within the first 48 hours.

Special Precautions

As with any vaccine or drug, the possibility of severe or potentially fatal reactions exists. However, flu vaccine has rarely been associated with severe or fatal reactions. In some instances people receiving vaccine have had allergic reactions. You should note very carefully the following precautions:

- Children under 18 years of age should not routinely receive flu vaccine.
- People with known allergy to eggs should receive the vaccine only under special medical supervision.
- People with fever should delay getting vaccinated until the fever is gone.
- People who have received another type of vaccine in the past 14 days should consult a physician before taking the flu vaccine.

If you have any questions about flu or flu vaccine, please ask.

INTRODUCTION

You probably have heard a good deal about swine flu and swine flu vaccine. You may know, for example, that swine flu caused an outbreak of several hundred cases at Ft. Dix, New Jersey, early in 1976—and that before then swine flu had not caused outbreaks among people since the 1920's.

With the vast majority of Americans being susceptible to swine flu, it is possible that there could be an epidemic this winter. No one can say for sure. However, if an epidemic were to break out, millions of people could get sick. Therefore, a special swine flu vaccine has been prepared and tested which should protect most people who receive it.

Certain people, such as those with chronic medical problems and the elderly, need annual protection against flu. Therefore, besides protection against swine flu, they also need protection against another type of flu (Victoria flu) that was around last winter and could occur again this winter. A separate vaccine has been prepared to give them protection against both types of flu.

These vaccines have been field tested and shown to produce very few side effects. Some people who receive the vaccine had fever and soreness during the first day or two after vaccination. These tests and past experience with other flu vaccines indicate that anything more severe than this would be highly unlikely.

Many people ask questions about flu vaccination during pregnancy. An advisory committee of the Public Health Service examined this question and reported that "there are no data specifically to contraindicate vaccination with the available killed virus vaccine in pregnancy. Women who are pregnant should be considered as having essentially the same balance of benefits and risks regarding influenza vaccination and influenza as the general population."

As indicated, some individuals will develop fever and soreness after vaccination. If you have more severe symptoms or if you have fever which lasts longer than a couple of days after vaccination, please consult your doctor or a health worker wherever you receive medical care.

While there is no reason to expect more serious reactions to this flu vaccination, persons who believe that they have been injured by this vaccination may have a claim. The Congress recently passed a law providing that such claims, with certain exceptions, may be filed only against the United States Government. Information regarding the filing of claims may be obtained by writing to the U.S. Public Health Service Claims Office, Parklawn Building, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852. If you receive the vaccine in a community program in California, you will only be able to recover damages if the person (or organization) from which you received the shot is guilty of willful misconduct.

On the reverse is more information about flu and flu vaccine. Please take the time to read it carefully. You will be asked to sign a form indicating that you understand this information and that you consent to vaccination.
